Ibrahim Yunesi, translator of the book, Edmondz, Kurds, Turks and the first official government-run arms channel between Israel and Arabs says, "Sadat of Egypt was mediating between the Shah and Iran in the early 1960s. In 1967, after the Middle East war, he became Saddam. In late February 1975, Barezani dispatched a delegation to back to Tel Aviv and made presentations to the chief of the General Staff of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF). He wanted to be military between the representatives of Iran and Iraq. Sadat received the governor of the West Bank, which had just been captured; ... when Kurdish delegation and ensured them that there were no talks being the IDF general staff said they were not ready to appoint him, he held at all. He betrayed them." Above collected by the compiler of Fardust's memoirs, the Institute for Political Studies and Research, army and become a millionaire ...
